National School Lunch Week Now Underway

"Beautify America - Feed Children" has been designated as the theme for National School Lunch Week, which concludes tomorrow (Friday) Mrs. Adriana Behrman, Director of Food Services for Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

Tomorrow schools will feature a menu which will be the same nation-wide. The meal will consist of:

SCHOOL PIZZA
GREEN BEANS, BUTTER
TOSSED SALAD (spinach, lettuce and tomatoe with oil dressing)
APPLES AND BROWNIE
1/2 PINT MILK

The American School Food Services Association last November adopted the resolution of "Universal Food Service and Nutrition Programs for all Children," with the intent of implementation by Congress and proposed financing on the basis of shared responsibility by federal, state and local governments.

American School Food Service Association is a nonprofit professional organization of 50,000 members dedicated to the health and wel-being of the nation's school children. Membership is onen to persons in non-profit school food service or related activities in public, private and parochial schools, colleges and universities and was organized in October, 1946.

As educators and health authorities became more aware of school lunches as an integral part of a child's health and education, more school lunch programs were begun and existing programs broadened to serve a maximum number of school children.

The Monterey Cafeteria personnel belong to the American School Food Service Association, as well as the state organization, California School Food Services Association. Approximately 100 people are employed in the district, operating cafeterias in 22 schools.

One month into the 1971-72 school year, 5,814 lunches have been prepared for hungry students and teachers. Hot lunches in elementary schools are priced at 40 cents and secondary school lunches go for 45 cents. Breakfast is priced at 15 cents at the participating schools, and sack lunches are available at two schools, Monterey High for 50 cents (includes two sandwiches) and Walter Colton Junior High for 45 cents (includes only one sandwich).

Cafeteria manager's meetings are held once a month to plan menus and workshops, sponsored by Monterey Peninsula College, are held in the summer. This past summer classes were held at Monterey High School in nutrition, work improvement, sanitation and safety, menu planning and quantity food.

Mrs. Behrman said that parents have the opportunity to come and sample school lunch fare during National Schools Lunch Week. Adult meals are priced at only 63 cents per plate. "The Monterey School Food Service personnel strive to increase the health and vigor of our yough through dynamic school food service programs," she added.

First Meeting Is Success

The first meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Vocational and Continuing Education was termed an unequivocal success by Alden Phillips, MPUSD Coordinator of Occupational and Vocational Education.

The committee, which met recently in the new Pacific Telephone Building in Monterey, was organized to develop recommendations on the Vocational and Continuing Education Programs for all the school districts on the peninsula. The Committee was also designed to provide a liaison between school districts and potential employers.

Representatives from business, industry and education were present, as well as students from the area high schools. Introductory remarks were presented by Dr. George Faul, President, MPC; Mr. Neil Fearn, Assistant Superintendent for Secondary Education for MPUSD and Mr. Rex Dunipace, Principal, Pacific Grove High School.

Discussion at the first meeting was aimed at the funcO tion of the Committee in relationship to the various educational institutions represented.

A formal meeting was set for Tuesday, November 9 at the same location, at which time 4-5 smaller study groups will be formed to "do their thing" in discussion of similar goals shared. Several members requested additional student representation and Mr. Phillips said this suggestion would be followed. A Chairman and Secretary will also be appointed at the next meeting.

"It was gratifying to see the discussion of ideas presented during the meeting continue after the formal close of the meeting. This indicates to me that the first meeting was a success and points to even greater successes at future meeting," Phillips said.

State Delegates to White House Conference Named

The selection of 125 men and women as California's state delegates to the 1971 National White House Conference on Aging, which will be held in Washington, D.C. from November 28 to December 2, was announced recently by the California Commission on Aging. The Conference has the announced goal of determining a more realistic and comprehensive national policy for older Americans.

David E. Baxter, executive director of the Commission, said the delegates were selected from recommendations at the local level on behalf of Governor Reagan. Selected from Seaside was Grace Hennington and from Monterey, Keith Merrill.

Some 4,000 delegates are expected to attend the national conference, according to Baxter. He said the largest group will be comprised of representatives from each state, territory and the District of Columbia, which have been allotted a minimum of 14 and a maximum of 125 delegates, based on their respective older populations in the 1970 census.

Baxter and Mrs. A.M. G. Russell, chairman of the California Commission on Aging, will be California's state agency representatives.

Every state now has a unit charged with responsibility for studying, consulting, advising and providing information on the needs and problems of senior citizens, Baxter said.

The California Commission on Aging was established by the Legislature in 1966 and was the outgrowth of a Citizens, Baxter said.

The California Commission on Aging was established by the Legislature in 1966 and Citizens Advisory Commission formed in 1955.

"Much progress has been made in the decade since the first White House Conference in 1961", Mrs. Russell said, "but 20 million older Americans still face many serious problems which will be topics of discossion at this meeting.

"We now have a national awareness of the needs and circumstances of older people, and the 1971 Conference must move forward by charting new goals, new directions and a decisive plan of action for the 1970's.

"California, with its over 65-population of nearly two million, has an expecially great stake in the determinations that will derive from this meeting."

Baxter said the California delegates have been selected from five general categories: older and middle-aged people; people in programs that provide direct services to older individuals; specialists in planning, research or teaching and other professional roles in the field of aging; "decision-makers" from local and state governmental bodies and younger citizens.

At the conference, each of the delegates will serve on one of 14 technical committees which will develop recommendations for action.

Muskie Is Endorsed

Three black Los Angeles leaders jointly announced their support for Edmund Muskie's presidential candidacy recently.

The Rev. Thomas Kilgore, pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Watts and the first black president of the American Baptist Convention; Arnett Hartsfield, a popular candidate in the 1970 Los Angeles board of education race and Willis Edwards, student body president at California State College at Los Angeles, issued a statement declaring that Muskie "represents a renewal of the people's hope for compassion and concern in government."

Rev. Kilgore, who is also a former western section president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and an active leader in SCLC's "Operation Breadbasket," said that "Senator Muskie not only has the ability to be a good President, he has the will to be a great President. I would not support him, nor would so many other black people in this country, if we did not basically believe that Muskie is a man we can trust."

Hartsfield and Edwards both attended a widely publicized meeting in Watts last month at which black community leaders and elected officials discussed the 1972 election with the Maine Democrat.

Hartsfield said that "I emerged from that meeting with the impression that Ed Muskie is a man willing to sit down and listen to people and to learn about the things that have to be changed in this country. I also feel that he most sincerely wants to change those things."

Edwards, who has just begun his onw year term as leader of the 22,000-student Cal State campus, added that "Senator Muskie simply tells it like it is. Black voters and particularly young people, are tired of politicians who wring their hands before election day and shrug their shoulders afterward. Senator Muskie tells us the truth as a candidate because he is honest and he will face the truth as President because he has courage."

Rev. Kilgore, Hartsfield and Edwards said that they joing many other prominent black Californians as active participants in the California Citizens for Muskie organization.

Meeting Planned

The Monterey Peninsula Chapter of CANHC will be meeting next Tuesday, October 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Grade Complex of La Mesa School, Monterey.

"The Behavior Mod Squad" will present a program on Family Communication Skills and the Management of Children.

Eugene Tolen, Rich Morris and Mike Collyer - the "Mod Squad" - are the Behavior Management Team of the Department of Service Programs in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

Further information may be obtained by calling 373-5648.

Bill Goes To Governor

The State Senate recently approved and sent to the Governor, by a 22 to one vote, a bill to authorize state funding of the Pajaro River Flood Control Project in Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties.

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky, co-author of the bill with Assemblyman Bob Woos, presented the measure to the Senate.

Grunsky told the Senate, "This bill would adopt and authorize the United States Army Corps of Engineers to proceed with the Pajaro River Flood Control Project with the assurance that the State of California would participate financially.

"This project was approved by the Congress in the Flood Control Act of 1966 by Public Law 90-483. This bill is the standard bill to authorize state financial participation under the State Water Resources Law of 1945."

The state's financial obligation under this law is limited to the cost of lands, easements and rights-of-way necessary for flood control purposes of the project (including relocation and modification of roads, bridges and utilities.)

The estimated total cost of the Pajaro River Project is $17,260,000 of which $760,000 would be the state's share.

The project will consist of modifying and extending 12.5 miles of existing levees on the Pajaro River and 4.5 miles on Corralitos-Salisipuedes Creek.

Local costs, which will be borne by the Monterey County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, consist of the costs required to operate and maintain the completed project in accordance with standards set by the Corps of Engineers.

Can-Am Is Sunday

Defending Can-Am Champion Denny Hulme has only one person between him and winning his third Can-Am series championship, his new series championship, his new team mate Peter Revson.

Victory in the Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix at Laguna Seca on this Sunday, however, won't be nearly as easy. The Can-Am adominating Gulf Team McLarens, on their way to a sixth consecutive Can-Am title, can expect the toughest race of the season with Jackie Stewart's Lola, Jackie Oliver's UOP Shadow, Jo Siffert's STP Porsche and a host of other racing greats all after a lion's share of the $75,000 in prize money.

Hulme, last year's Laguna Seca winner, hasn't had things his own way this year as Revson has had more than a fair share of the winning in the ten-race, million dollar series. Revson has own four of the eight races run so far this season, to build up a points total of 107. With only two wins but four second place finishes, Hulme is second in the standing with 100 points. Only two races remain so that no other driver can possible win the title.

World Champion Jackie Stewart's Lola has been the only car to consistantly challenge Hulme and Revson although in the last Can-Am race at Edmonton, Canada, Hulme had to contend with Jackie Oliver's Shadow first before he got near Stewart and then took the lead to win.

The Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix, ninth round of the Johnson Wax sponsored the Johnson Wax sponsored Can-Am series, highlights a four day weekend of speed at Laguna Seca which also features the final event in the SCCA's 2.5 Trans-Am Sedan Championship and the Inver House Scoth Challenge, the race that will determine the 1971 International Pro Super Vee Champion.

Rummage SaleTomorrow

A rummage sale will be held on tomorrow (Friday) from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. and this Saturday, October 16, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Hilltop Methodist Church, 1340 Hilby Avenue, Seaside.

There will be clothing for all members of the family, glass jars, bottles and miscellaneous items.

Those wishing any further information may call Mrs. Marjorie Voss, Chairman, at 394-7306.

Man's inhumanity to man is manifest in all of the tragic events which surround us in our daily life. Man is the only one of God's creatures that purposely sets itself on a course that destroys his fellow man. The inhumanity of war, the inhumanity of poverty, the unhumanity of hatred and discrimination, the inhumanity of crime and the inhumanity of the punishment are all proof that today man does not really care for his brother. It proves that the greed of his own fight for survival of the human race.

The futility of war has been proven time and again over the ages. Still, man continues to settle his diputes with violence, knowing full well at the outset that nothing will really be accomplished in the long run. In the end, when peace come, he will still be faced with the same problems that were responsible for the start of the war. The same applies to poverty. There is enought on this earth to feed, clothe and provide employment for every man or woman who needs it. Yet his out-moded methods of distribution of that wealth have for centuries made the rich richer and the poor poorer. The hatred and discrimination of man for man have for all time robbed him of the intelligence and labor of those he would discriminate against; by not allowing certain races and peoples to rise to equal status, the world is deprived of their culture and intelligence which would serve to enrich us

Explore Monterey Bay

The Monterey Bay is full of plant life, animal life, sewage and industrial waste. To find out more about the bay and marice environment, a group of high school and junior college students met October 3rd at the Hopkins Marine Station in Pacific Grovewith Marine Science Graduate Student Jim Sutten to organize a group called Exploring. The group plans to learn about our marine environment, what they can do to save it and also about educational and careet opportunities in the marine sciences.

The Marine Science Exploring Group is sponsored by the Naval Postgraduate School in conjunction with the Explorer Division of the Boy Scouts of America, but it's not Scouting in the regular sence of the word. Exploring is a co-ed program for young adults ages 15 through 20 specializing in a career area of their choice. There are no uniforms, no requirements and no advancements. The program is designed to "do your own thing". There are over 350 young adults involved in such programs throughout the Monterey County.

On the Monterey Peninsula alone there are 19 different Explorer groups with more than 250 members. If you wish to find out more about Exploring call 375-8195 or write EXPLORING, P.O. Box 1967, Salinas, Ca. 93901.

Ski Swap Announced

On Sunday, October 24, the Carmel Ski Club is sponsoring the second annual Central Coast Ski Swap at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

Thousands of new and used items will be offered for sale during the Ski Swap hours, which will be noon until 5. Admission is $1.50 -- children under 12 are free -- with door prizes being donated by many ski areas.

Skiers may bring their used equipment and clothing and register it for sale beginning at 9.

Here's an opportunity for all skiers, especially students and families, to outfit themselves at a reasonable cost for the coming winter season. That's Sunday, October 24, at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

For further information, call the Ski Swap Phone: 375-7283.

Moscone Is Guest

State Senate Majority Leader George R. Moscone of San Francisco will be the guest speaker at Monterey's Neptune table on Fisherman's Wharf Wednesday October 20, 12:00 noon.

Moscone has been mentioned as a 1974 gubernatorial candidate since being elected to the Senate in 1966, then reelected overwhelmingly in 1970.

The San Francisco Legislator serves on the Senate Committee on Education, Elections and reapportionment, Industrial Relations, and judiciary. He has served as democratic Floor Leader since 1967.

CONTINUED INFORMATION

Due to space in last week's paper, the article pertaining to "Dinner at Eight" was shortened.

It is to be noted that guest speaker, Booker Bradshaw's other starring roles include performances in "War and Peace" and "Raisin in the Sun." His performance with Dick Van Kyke in "Some Kind of Nut," led to a starring role in "The Strawberry Statement," an MGM production and Cannes Film Festival award winner.

After graduating cum laude in English Literature from Harvard University, Bradshaw turned down a scholarshjp to the Harvard Business School in favor of a two-year scholarship at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London. He is currently at work writing pilots for TV series and original screen plays. An accomplished singer and guitarist, he has just completed an album with Jose Feliciano soon to be released by Motown.

Bradshaw has in recent months been an active volunteer for the American Cancer Society, making personal appearances at benefits and events for the society.

For a job well done, the committee and those in charge of arrangements for the affair were Basileus J. Barbara Smith, President; Clarice Rhodes, Program Chairman and Mildred Caver, Murdis Corley, Gladys Jordan, co-chairmen. They were assisted by Doris Brown, Frankie Carr, Geraldine Gilliam, Zenobia Payne, Maud Pearson, Dorothy Richards, Mae Dell Sanders, Sylvia Taylor, Michele Woods and Lillian Wright.

Peninsula residents attending were LTC. and Mrs. Elisa Brandon of Fort Ord, and their house guest Mrs. John Evans of Los Angeles. Chaplain and Mrs. Evans were stationed at Fort Ord four years ago. He is presently serving a tour in Vietnam. Also attending were Miss Sapp, Willie Evans and Mrs. M.E. Harris, all of Seaside.

APTOS WEDDING

Carol Ann Barrigan and Paul Harold Jenseth were united in marriage on Saturday, September 25 at Monte Toyon Methodist Grounds Redwood Chaoel. Rev. Jennie Maiereder, a 91-year-old minister, officiated at the 1 p.m. ceremony.

Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew E. Barrigan of Monterey. She was escorted to the altar by her father, who is the publisher of the Seaside POST News-Sentinel. Her floor length gown was of white peau, styled with long fitted sleeves and a "V" cut neckline. Her illusion waist length veil was held in place by a head piece made of daisies (which the bride made) and she carried a bouquet of daisies with tangerine streamers. Carol graducated from Burbank High School of Sacramento in 1966.

She was attended by Mrs. Debbie Alegnai, who was matron of honor. Her gown was made of a beautiful orange print and she carried tangerine mums.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Jenseth of Woodbridge, Conn., where he attended college. He chose Ricardo Swaitly to serve as best man. Paul is presently serving in the United States Army, stationed at Letterman General Hospital, where he is a Clinical Specialist.

The reception was held immediately following the wedding at the Cook Book of Aptos.

The bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy F. Hadsall of Denver, Colorado attended the wedding.

The young couple are making their home in San Francisco.

PENINSULA VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Chicago, recently visited his sister, Mrs. Lloyd Brannon of Seaside. They had not seen each other since 1956. Joining them on the Peninsula were his older brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith of Berkeley. While here, Mrs. Brannon's guests toured all the senic areas and were hosted to a delightful cocktail dinner party by their niece, Mrs. Willie Evans which was held in her beautiful home in Seaside.

The Chicago guests flew into Los Angeles where they visited close friends in Pomona. They will also fly out of Los Angeles in order to visit with another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mylon Stewart who live in West Covina. Another out-of-town guest attending the dinner was Mrs. Gladys Ivy of Oakland, who was on the peninsula taking care of business. She returned to the bay area with the Smiths.

NEWLYWEDS - Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harold Jenseth (Carol Ann Barrigan) were married in outdoor ceremony in Aptos. See Mary Ellen's column for details.

MPC Staging Feiffer Play

College Players is staging, "Little Murders," a satirical play by Jules Feiffer. It will run through October 23 at the MPC Theatre.

Directing the play is Peter DeBono, a former MPC student who has this year returned to the faculty after obtaining a master's debree at UCLA.

Tickets are on sale at the MPC Theatre office and Abinante Music Store in Monterey.

Feiffer's play centers around an intellectually honest protagonist, Alfred Chamberlain, who seeks a passive way to peace. It is not pacifism that he uses to obtain his goal, but apathism. Pacifism requires a certain willingness to take forceful meaures, but he has discovered that if he allows his sttackers to simply beat him up, they soon lose interest and quit.

The play takes place in the violent West Nineties district of Manhattan. Murders, sirens, gunshots, and other sounds of violence are heard throughout the play. According to director DeBono, Feiffer has written an urban fable about the violence we all do subtly to one another every day, the "little murders" that metaphorically turn into big ones.

Playing Alfred Chamberlain if Marvin Geer, formerly lighting technician and master carpenter for the MPC Players. He appeared at MPC this summer in Cocteau's "Orphee." In the female lead apposite Alfred is Patsy, played by Dianna Lingwood. She has attended the Pasadena Playhouse on a scholarship and was in the MPC Players' production of Pinter's "The Tea Party."

Also featured in the cast are John Bristol as Carol, Patsy's father; Terry Jett as Marjorie, Carol's wife; Michael Roberts, who plays Kenn, Patsy's brother and Jason Cronin, who play Dupas.

The play will be shown tonight (Thursday) through Saturday, October 16 and again from October 20 through 23 at 8:30 p.m. in the MPC Theater. All seats are reserved. General admission is $1.50, with tickets for students and military costing $1. The MPC Theatre box office is open from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. and from 7-9 p.m. Monday through Friday. Reservations may be obtained by calling 375-0455.

Offered

Weekly classes in stitchery will be offered in Pacific Grove for people interested in canvas work, crewel embroidery, rug hooking, etc.

The starting date for the class will be announced when a minimum of five people register for the class. There will be a fee of $18 for a six week course. Reservations can be made at Craft and Hobby Book Service, 703 Lighthouse Avenue, Pacific Grove, or by calling 373-0764.

NO MORE

Terminal dates for VA home loans for all eligible vets have been eliminated by the Veterans Administration.

Church Services

What does the life of Christ Jesus mean to people in today's world?

An answer to this question will be given this Sunday at Christian Science church services in a Bible Lesson-Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement."

"God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," a Bible text states.

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monterey, are held at 10:30 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

Councilman Honors Leslie McNinch Here

Leslie McNinch, director of the Monterey Peninsula Service Center received an award for setting uup the big brother-sister program from City Councilman Steve Ross recently.

Her proposal was that there is a recognized need in the Monterey Peninsula area for concerned and willing adults who care enough to take personal interest in a child.

The programs she set up involves boys and girls, men and women. Children in the program are aged from 6-17, and adults 18-65 or older.

A reason for having an upper age limit is to enable elder people of the community to participate in a foster grant parent capacity.

Children in the program come from environments in which they may lack the experiences and advantages of other more fortunate children. The aim of the program is to involve more children than just fartherless boys, but also girls, kids from low-income families, and kids who are in need of guidance.

Adult volunteers are supposed to be well adjusted men or women of character who are interested sufficiently in the welfare of others to share their time, knowledge and abilities to help a child along the road to better life.

Goals and objectives of the program Leslie McNich helped to formulate are:

Helping the kids to build self respect, co-operation in working with others, guidance in helping to formulate the childs life to a degree they can choose goals among the fellow man of a human nature, and the development of a consistent and reliable relationship between the child and the adult. A six month relationship with a child is suggested, but if not possible, then it is hoped that those who cannot make a definite committment may be able to participate in the program on a different capacity.

September and October will consist of Organizing an advisory board, selecting a director, setting up policy and guidelines for operation; organizing children, selecting kids for program organizing parent advisory council, seek funding, organize staff, organize tutorial program.

November will be the beginning of operation with children on a one-to-one basis, and December will be the planning of joint activities for kids and buddies.

Miss McNinch is acting as the professional staff co-ordinator and she can be contacted at the Monterey Peninsula Service Center, 899-2503.

Miss McNinch is age 23, and has been a resident of Seaside since 1960, when her family moved to California from Portland Oregon.

She resides at 1704 Napa St. and attended Seaside High School before going to Monterey Peninsula College and then Humbolth State College, graduating in March of 1971 with a BA in Social Welfare.

Her activities have also included work in the Future Nurses Club, the Newman Club, CYO and girl scout camps, and she's working on a master's at Humbolth State.

Bob Wood Reports

Most of us read a daily or weekly newspaper or keep in communication with the outside world through radio or TV. I'm sure most of us have read where crime and violence against our law enforcement officers have increased far beyond our greatest fears. It is interesting to note that in 1970, 21 of our finest officers were killed. Eighty-five of them in the past 10 years and the record is growing.

One of my colleagues in the State Senate introduced a bill earlier this year which would have made the death penalty mandatory for first degree murder of a police officer. I honestly feel that such a law is morally justified and I co-authored the bill along with several others. The bill succeeded in passing the Senate, but was killed in a lower house committee and we never had a chance to vot for it on the Assembly floor.

However, some of the testimony at the hearing on the bill brought out some startling facts and I though you might be interested in some of them. One of these facts was that of all the police officers killed, 30 percent of those who were actually convicted and found guilty were not convicted of first degree murder but were convicted of only second degree murder or some other offense connected with the crime itself.

Part of the problem as described in the testimony was ascribed to a brutalization, an acceptance of violence which seems to have infected too many people in our society. An example, are direct attacks on police by the militants; it is violence at its worst. Another problem indicated in the testimony is the "revolving door" approach in which justice has found itself. An example was shown in a large northern California county where 75 percent of all felonies sent to the Superior Court were disposed of without trial while only 3 percent of the defendants who were convicted of a felony were sent to prison. I'm sure there are many who would question why 90 percent of our convicted felons shouldn't be going to prison instead of only 3 percent.

One witness offered a suggestion for legislation to provide a mandatory 25 year prison term without parole for those convicted three or more times for a felony. This particular witness concluded his testimony by saying that the time has come when the public demands that our streets be free from convicted felons who have received "wrist-slap" sentences. The same witness went on to state that if we must underwrite crime then let us build more prisons as an alternative to serving as future victims, for future crimes.

New Lookat Chicano Life

The Mexican American has made more progress in education in the last few years than in any other sphere of U.S. life, according to two members of the San Jose College community who recently edited an anthology of writings by and about Mexican Americans.

Ed Ludwig, manager of the general book department of Spartan Bookstore and James Santibanez, a social science major, say educators have been very responsive to the Mexican American's needs. Some colleges and universities, they point out, have open admissions policies and special Mexican American programs such as the Mexican American Graduate Student program at SJSC.

Their book, "The Chicanos: Mexican American Voices," was published as a Pelican paperback original ($1.50). It contains non-fiction articles, fiction and poetry that present a picture of Chicano life today -- reminiscences of Mexican American childhood, accounts of Chicanos in the American school system, reports on strikes by Chicano workers and poems and stories about poverty and alienation.

The contributors include Cesar Chavez on the California grape strike; Joan Baez on her experience as a Mexican American and Reies Lopez Tijerina, who offers his first article since the Tierra Amarilla courthouse raid of 1967.

While growing up in Tracy, California, Ludwig recalls blatant discrimination against his Mexican American playmates. His grandfather, a Cherokee Indian, and grandmother, a Mexican, had been forced out of New Mexico because of their color. "I remember my grandfather's stories about discrimination very well," he said.

A graduate of the College of the Pacific in Stockton, Ludwig has taught high school English and journalism. He also has worked as a professional pianist and writer of science fiction and detective stories.

A charter member of the Science Fiction Writers of America, Ludwig has published several stories and one book, "The Mask of Jon Culon."

In addition to his studies, Santibanez works as a tutor in the SJSC Educational Opportunity Program for economically and educationally disadvantaged minority students.

He was born in Colorado of parents who had worked their way north from Mexico.

Before coming to SJSC, Santibanez was a student and biology lab assistant at the University of Southern California.

He is on the executive board of La Confederacion de la Raza Unida (The Confederation of the People United), which is composed of 64 local Chicano organizations.

Historian To Lecture

Art historian, collector and explorer Richard Maxon will be featured in the second part of the Discovery '71 series being presented at Monterey Peninsula College this fall.

Maxon will narrate a color film, "Lost Worlds of Man... Art and Archaeoloty," tomorrow (Friday) evening at 8 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall. The film focuses on the interrelationships and similarities between artifacts found in ruins of different ancient civilizations. Examined in the lecture will be jewels and ornaments, tools and weapons, animal and human figures, sacred vessels and other relics from ancient cultures long forgotten.

The Discovery '71 series includes lectures by four noted explorers. Following Maxon will be Norman Baker, "Voyages of Ra I and Ra II," on October 29 and Jean-Pierre Hallet, "Big Game, Witchcraft and Cannibalism in Africa," on November 12.

Maxon is an authority in the fields of art and archaeology. He is a curator of the World Museum in Amherst, Massachusetts. A graduate of Amherst College, has also is one of few men to attend Smith College, where he completed special studies in the field of art. He has also studied at the Academie de la Grande Chaumiere in Paris. In addition to showing the color film, he will bring representative artifacts for closer inspection by those attending the lecture.

General admission for the program is $1.75. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance at the MPC Community Services office.

Man, of course, has been made to answer from time to time for his inhumanity. In modern days in this country, the payment has come in the form of higher taxes to pay for the wars, to pay the welfare bill for our neglet of poverty and to pay for the upgrading of our American minotities - the black, Mexican-American and the American Indian. Those who have been the most responsible for the inhumanity are the first to cry when they must pay the tax bill which is necessary to correct the wrongs they have perpetrated on the rest of humanity. The most greedy are the most inhuman and, therefore, the first to holler about the high taxes that it takes to try and correct their own misleads.

The most recent confrontation we have had for our centuries of misdeeds is the revolt which is taking place in our prisons. This revolt is not the result of "revolutionaries" infiltrating our prisons. It is the result of the failure of man to realize that even prisoners continue to be human in spite of whatever we might think of them. They eat and sleep and breath just like other human beings and the fact that they are paying the price for their misdeeds does not give their fellow humans the right to treat them like animals. It is true that the results of rehabilitation have been slow, but that is not the fault of the rehabilitation. This is the fault of our system which doesn't allow the ex-convict to follow a normal life on his release. The very poverty under which most of these criminals were brought up again engulfs them upon release and drives them right back to where they were before they were ever imprisoned in the first place.

We want these ex-convicts to lead a decent life and to once again become citizens of the community, but how many of us realize that when a man is put in prison for a felony he is deprived of his most basic right as a citizen (that is besides his freedom). He loses his right to vote. Yes, and even after he has paid his price to society for his wrongdoing, he does not regain this right. "Once a felon," the law in California says, "always a felon." How can we expcet these men to follow a normal decend lift if we deprive them, first, of their freedom for a certain time to pay for their transgression and, then, continue to punish them after they have been released by not letting them vote. The only way that an ex-convict can get back his citizenship is by a pardon from the governor of the state and the process for obtaining a pardon is long and most of the time fruitless. It seems to me that if we are not going to improve our penal methods overnight, at least in this one instance we could change the law so that when a man has served his time we can re-instate him to the status he held before his incarceration and that is to give him the right to vote again. Of course, there is no reason to take away that right in the first place and I would think that the sooner such a decision is brought to the Supreme Court of the United States that those states which at present disenfranchise felons will find that they had no right to do so under the equal rights clauses of the Constitution.

Kahlil Gibran, my favorite "Prophet" says it so beautifully in his book, "The Voive of the Master."

"Are you one who was born in the cradle of sorrow and reared in the lap of misfortune and in the house of oppression? Are you eating a dry crust, mositened with tears? Are you drinking the turbid waters in which are migled blood and tears?

"Are you a soldier compelled by the harsh law of man to forsake wife and children and go forth into the field of battle for the sake of 'GREED,' which your misleades call 'DUTY.'

"Are you a poet content with your crumbs of life, happy in the possession of parchment and ink and in the sojourning in your land as a stranger, unknown to your fellow men?

"Are you a prisoner, pent up in a dark dungeon for some petty offense and condemned by those who seek to reform man by corrupting him?

"Are you a young woman on whom God has bestowed beauty, but who has fallen prey to the base lust of the rich, who deceived you and boufht your body but not your heart and abandoned you to misery and distress?

"If you are one of these, you are a martyr to man's law. You are wretched, and your wretchedness is the fruit of the iniquity of the strong and the injustice of the tyrant, the brutality of the rich, and the selfishness of the lewd and covetous. Confront ye, my beloved weak ones, for there is a Grate Power behind and beyond this world of Matter, a Power that is Justice, Mercy, Pity and Love.

"You are like a flower that grown in the shade; The gentle breeze comes and bears your seed into the sunlight, where you will live again in beauty.

"You are like the bare tree bowed with winter's snow; Spring shall come and spread her garments of green over you; and Truth shall rend the veil of tears that hide your laughter. I take you unto me, my aflicted brothers, I love you and condemn your oppressors..."

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

Good news! I am going to write about good news for a change, instead of trying to get people to do things about bad news.

A very encouraging item just came out of Vietnam. The Thieu government has just shut down four newspapers that were telling their readers about things that Pres. Thieu does not want them to know about. He is thus obviously interested in the happiness of his people, a quality heretofore not noticed in Pres. Thieu.

Another promising item-Lt. Col. Herbert, who was about to be kicked out of the United States Army for making a report that two of his superior officers were allowing war crimes to be committed under their jurisdiction, is now going to be allowed to stay in the army. Even though the decision was forced by public criticism, it is heartwarming to know that our high command has such compassion for human beings.

And in Washington, D.C., there is speculation that Martha Mitchell has taken a vow to not say anything to the press for a whole week that would be embarrassing to either Sen. McGovern or Sen. Fulbright or Attorney General John Mitchell, the latter being her husband, for better for for worse.

Also in Washington, D.C., the recent Senate vote on funding for the Nixon Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system was particularly brightening for our spirts. Mr. Nixon's pet moneymaker won the vote-57 to 21, which means disaster to some much needed social programs here in America, but it is wonderful to know that ouf of one hundred U.S. Senators on the public payroll, 21 of them decided that America's future was more important than a useless defense system. 21 out of a hundred is not much, but it is better than nothing, so let us rejoice. Maybe some day our own congressman, the Hon. Burt Talcott, may even dedice to change his voting pattern on this legalized robbery of the U.S. Treasury.

Also encouraging was the report that the United Nations is about to go bankrupt, leaving the United States as its principal financial backer. This means, of course, that the United Nations had just better not be critical of our foreign policies and various and sundry war crime, or we will forthwith and without fanfare let them go into said bankruptcy. We could, if we wished, simply take over the U.N. and change its name to the United Nations of the United States, but some other countries might then think that we were trying to use the United Nations for our own gains.

Readers who may be hurting because of high taxes should be delighted about Mr. Nixon's recent unprecedented show of intelligence and display of concern over government spending. He saved us several dollars by not sending a telegram of congratulations to South Vietnam's Pres. Thieu, who recently won a one-man election that was supervised by his army. This must have hurt both Mr. Nixon's and Pres. Thieu's feelings to have to do this, because up until now Mr. Nixon has seen fit to order several thousand Americans to die in the fight to preserve Mr. Thieu's status. Also, who would ever have dreamed that Richard Nixon would be sharp enough to recognize that since his wage-price controls are not working, the best thing to do would be to hand the whole mess over to "citizen's committees," so that nobody would connect him with the thing thirteen months from now when an apathetic electorate will flock to the polls to continue his reign for another four years.

Questions&Answers

Q - I have a 10 percent disability rating and am in a VA hospital because of a service-connected disability. Will I receive a permanent increase in my compensation?

A -- Only if there is a permanent increase in the degree of your service connected disability. However, if you are hospitalized more

Q - I am the daughter of a veteran who died of a service-connected disability. Having completed high school, I would now like to apply for VA educational assistance. I understand VA provides counseling and I would appreciate such assistance to help me upon a suitable educational or vocational goal. Will the VA provide this counseling without cost to me?

A -- Yes. The VA will provide the assistance of a professional counselor to help you decide upon an educational or vocational goal. This counseling, at no cost to you, is required for an eligible child before approval of an initial course, re-entrance after discontinuance of a program, or change of program.

Q - I can't find my G.I. insurance policy which was issued by the Veterans Administration. Does this jeopardize my protection in any manner?

A -- No direct loss of protection results from the loss of a policy. Generally, a policy a rider, or a renewable certificate can be replaced if the insured sends the VA an acceptable statement about its loss, destruction mutilation or non-receipt. He should include his insurance number if he has it available, and other identifying information.

Q -- As the widow of a World War II veteran I receive service-connected dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC). I am severely disabled, and am required to live in a nursing home. How do I apply for the $50 additional aid and attendance benefits?

A -- Write to the regional office having jurisdiction of your claim. Enclose a statement from your doctor or the director of the nursing home, stating why you need this care.

Q -- Is it necessary that a veteran name a contingent beneficiary of his G I. insurance policy in case the person he has named as beneficiary died before he does?

A -- No but it is a good idea to do so.

Q -- I hear that it is so longer necessary for servicemen to have two years of active duty to qualify to study under the G.I. Bill. Is that true?

A -- Yes, but this applies only to servicemen who have not received secondary school diplomas or who need remedial or refresher courses required for or preparatory to enrollment in a program of education or training. These servicemen are eligible for G.I. Bill benefits after 180 days of active duty. Other servicemen must have had at least two years of active duty. 181 days of which must have been continuous active duty,

What is Christian Science?

It is a religion based on the words and works of Christ Jesus.
It has helped many like you to prove in a measure the meaning of Christ Jesus' promise:
"He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also."
It shows the scientific basis of Christianity and how to avail yourself of the laws of God in everyday life.
If you would like to learn more about Christian Science, you are welcome to come to our Reading Room and to read this week's Bible Lesson.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Fellow Peninsulans,

This week's column is dedicated to the memory of one of Seaside's former young residents -- Miss Allena Denise Ivey, who was killed in an automobile-train accident. The tragic mishap occured on September 30 in Hayward. Denise and her cherished companion, Melbert Swan, were travelling at about 25 miles per hour, when their car was struck by a train at a vaguely marked railroad crossing. The train, which was travelling about 50 miles per hour, carried the car almost 400 feet down the tracks. According to the coronor's report, Denise and Melbert were killed instantly upon impact.

Denise Ivy was born August 4, 1955. She was the beloved and cherished daughter of Mrs. Gladys Ivy of Oakland, a former Seaside resident and Mr. Henry Ivy of Wichita, Kansas, also formerly of Seaside. Denise attended San Carlos School and Junipero High School in Monterey. When Junipero High closed, she decided to continue her education in the Catholic school system. She and her mother moved to Oakland so Denise could attend Bishop O'Dowd High School. While living on the Monterey Peninsula, Denise was very active in community affairs and she performed as a dancer with the 87th Off Broadway, a popular local band. She was a member of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Seaside.

Melbert, who was 18-years old, was the beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Melbert Swan of Oakland. He was a student at Merritt College there.

Double funeral services were held in Oakland on October 5. The couple was buried together in the same grave plot where they will rest in peace and happiness together in death, as they were so inseparable and happy with one another in life on earth.

May God rest their souls and grant them love and everlasting peace.

TRAGIC LOSS - Former Seaside resident Denise Ivy was killed in automobile accident recently in Hayward. See Betty Mann's Column for complete story.

Recipe Corner

(Editor's note - The POST is offering its readers this new feature for their cooking and eating pleasure. The good people at Mecca Delicatessen will supply us with the recipes. You will discover that the methods and recipes are simple, practical and economical.)

Today we enjoy trying out this long-standing German favorite.

FRIED VEAL SLICES
(WEINER SCHNITZEL)

4 Veal escalopes (from rump)
Salt
1 level tablespoon plain flour
1-1/2 oz. (45 grams) fat
1/4 pint (140 ccm) water
2 to 3 tablespoons sour cream
Breadcrums

Season the meat, dip first in the flour, then into the egg which should be beaten and lastly into breadcrums. Fry in hot fat on both sides until brown. Add the water and the cream to the fat. Stir well and pour over the veal.

Frying time: about 10 minutes

Garnish with slices of lemon, anchovies and capers

Guten Appetit!

Every hour of every day there are a dozen new reasons why we have to build ahead.

This year the number of people we serve is expected to increase by more than 105,000 —about 12 new customers every hour. More people mean more demand for more gas and electricity for homes, businesses, schools, street lights, etc. Our job is to make sure this energy is available.

New systems that will help clean up and improve our environment are also increasing the demand for energy. With all these growing public needs in mind, our aim is to make sure there's always enough reliable energy available for everyone. That's why we are building new plants and must continue to provide for the future. And we know you really would not want it any other way.

31st Season At Ashland Is Best Yet

Despite a summer characterized by national economic uncertainty and unusually cool early season weather, the Oregon Shakespearean Festival hosted the largest crowds in its 31-season history, according to Festival General Manager William Patton.

Some 125,324 patrons attended the Festival's six-play summer repertory, bringing the theatre's 1971 attendance grand total to 154,777. This includes an earlier fall production and the spring STAGE II series in the indoor theatre. Last year's grand total was 126,000.

In describing the summer season, which closed here Sunday night before a large crowd in the outdoor Elizabethan theatre, Patton said, "With nearly every other theatre in the country suffering from serious financial problems, this comes as a small miracle. We simply couldn't have accomplished this without . . .the help of some 500 volunteers from our region who five so generously of their free time."

The summer's attendance ran at an average 81.4 percent of capacity. Of the 172 summer performances, 68 were sell-outs.

A KIT OF 6 DYES—TOGETHER
WORTH UP TO $15 RETAIL—ALL
FOR ONLY $9.95

Front Back
CM-145 Love & Peace Retail $4.50

It's as easy as boiling water! Nothing could be simpler—or more satisfying—than making your own scented decorator candles with our two-piece, three-dimensional plastic molds. Easy-to-follow illustrated directions are included without charge. So you're sure to succeed the very first time!

Choose your three molds and you get enough scent and dye to make several candles from each one. Surprise your friends with a gift of your handiwork, as well as enjoying the beauty, warmth and fragrance of your own lovely candles right at home.

You get 100% full strength scents—only 10 drops is all you add to a full pound of wax. Choose three from these 12: Spice, Strawberry, Gardenia, Lilac Blossom, Citronella, Bayberry, Orange Blossom, Sandlewood, Pine Rose, Lemon and Jasmine.

Enough of six candle wax dyes to color 18 pounds of wax is also included.

Add it all up and you get up to $15 worth at retail—all for only $9.95. It's little enough for the countless hours of pleasure you'll get from both your candlemaking and your scented decorator candles. So do send your order right now—today!

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
#18085

On Friday, the 5th day of November, 1971, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., in the lobby of Monterey Mortgage Company, situate at 118 Webster Street facing the Webster Street side of the United States Post Office in the City of Monterey, State of California, MONTEREY MORTGAGE COMPANY, a California corporation, as Trustee by substitution under that certain Deed of Trust executed by DANIEL W. WILLIAMS, for the benefit and security of ELVIN ANDERSON and FRANCES ANDDERSON, his wife as Community Property, said Deed of Trust dated April 1,1970, and recorded August 19, 1970, Reel 663 of Official Records at page 19, Monterey County, California, reference to which is hereby made, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, payable at the time of sale, the following described real property situate in the County of Montery, State of California, and more particularly described as follows:

LOT 4, in Block 49, as shown on the map entitled "TRACT NO. 303 ORD TERRACE NO. 9", filed December 4, 1956, in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Monterey, State of California, and now on file in said office in Map Book Six, "Cities and Towns" at page 104 therein.

The address of said property is 2060 Hacienda, Seaside, California.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in by said Deed of Trust.

Notice of Default of said obligation and election to sell real property was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of Monterey County, California, on May 20, 1971, in Reel 703, Official Records, at page 850, copy of which Notice of Default was mailed by Registered Mail at the address as specified in said Deed of Trust at the time provided by law.

That nothing has been paid on account of interest and Principal on said Deed of Trust subsequent to the filing of said Notice of Default. Partial payments on account of taxes and partial payments on account of prior liens have been received but inadequate in amount to reinstate the loan.

The owner and holder of the promissory note and the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, or any other persons, may purchase at said sale.

This notice is given in compliance with a demand heretofore made on said Trustee by said Beneficiary.

(Freeway Annex No. 1 to City of Seaside)

STATEMENT OF FACT:

The Monterey County Local Agency Formation Commission by Resolution No. 71-27 adopted 22 June, 1971 found the territory described in attached Exhibit "A" to be uninhabited and approved its annexation to the City of Seaside under the designation of "Freeway Annex No. 1 to City of Seaside".

RESOLVED:

Under the provisions of the Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939:

1. The City Council of the City of Seaside hereby initiates proceedings for the annexation of the uninhabited territory described in attached Exhibit "A".

2. The reason for annexation is to provide municipal services to the territory and to obviate furnishing of county services to a portion of the territory.

3. At any time prior to final adjournment of the hearing on protests, any owner of property within the territory may file written protest against the annexation.

4. The Council will hear protests to the annexation at its regular meeting to be held on Thursday, 4 November, 1971 at the Seaside City Hall.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Seaside duly held on 16 September, 1971, by the following vote:

AYES, Councilmen: Barton, Ross, Cota, Olea and Mayor Haddad
NOES, Councilmen: None
ABSENT, Councilmen: None

/s/ LOUIS N. HADDAD,
Mayor of the City of Seaside

Dr. Bunche Retires From U.N. Due To Poor Health

By Mary Perry Ellen,
POST Staff Writer

The retirement of Ralph J. Bunche as the United Nations' Undersecretary-General for Special Political Affairs, brings to an end one of the most distinguished and adventurous careers in American history.

Bunche, 67, has been plagued for many months by complications of several ailments --kidney malfunction, diabetes, heart disease and, most recently, the after-effects of a fall from bed in which he broke his right arm.

He entered New York Hospital in May and was discharged two weeks ago but reentered the hospital on Thursday, September 30.

His retirement from the U.N. was effective in June on medical advice but was not announced at that time because United Nations Secretary-General U. Thant hoped that Bunche would recover and be able to return to his duties. His term was due to end March 31, 1972.

When it became evident that there was little chance of his return to the U.N., it was fit that to preserve Bunche's pension rights he should be retired.

Dr. Bunche was the highest American official in the United Nations, an intimate advisor to the Secretary-General.

RENOWNED DIPLOMAT

Dr. Bunche is an international symbol of the Black man's increasingly effective struggle for equality. His success in resolving international disputes and his receipt of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950 have stamped him as one of America's most significiant 20th century diplomats.

Born in Detroit on August 7, 1904, he lived with his parents, Fred and Olive Bunche, until he and his sister, Grace, were orphaned when he was 13. Reared by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Johnson, he attended Jefferson High School in Los Angeles and was graduated with valedictory honors in 1922. He had worked his way through high school by laying carpets.

At the University of California at Los Angeles, he played football, baseball and basketball and was sports editor of the yearbook before graduating in 1927 summa cum laude -- with highest honors -- and with Phi Beta Kappa honors.

He left California that year to enter Harvard University with $1,000 collected for him by Los Angeles citizens. He received his masters degree in government at Harvard in 1928 and the same year became head of the political science department at Howard University.

In 1932 he was able to resume work on his Ph.D at Harvard where he completed his doctoral dissertation, entitled "French Administration in Togoland and Dahomey."

AFRICAN TRAVELS

The research portion of the dissertation required investigation of the interior of both territories by truck and gave him his first glimpse of life in colonial Africa.

His dissertation won the coveted Toppan Award for the best essay of its kind in the social sciences.

Dr. Bunche then received a two-year post-doctoral fellowship in anthropology and colonial policy, which allowed him to study at Northwestern University and the London School of Economics and, in 1937, at South Africa's Capetown University, where he was admitted only after convincing the authorities that his purpose was not to stir the Africans to revolt.

During his return trip to Africa, Dr. Bunche was made an honorary citizen of the Kikiyu tribe, in Kenya earning the name Karioki, or "he-who-has-returned-from-the-who-has-returned-from-the-dead."

"I was welcomed in a field by a grizzled old elder, Chief Konoange by name," Dr. Bunche said. "He told me that many of his former relatives had been captured by slave traders and never seen again. He had prayed for the day when He had prayed for the day when one would return and I dramatized to him my sense of connection with Africa. To this dy, I bear the name he gave me and hear it whenever I return."

ESCAPES LYNCHING

Back in the United States, Dr. Bunche joined the staff of the Carnegie Corporation as chief aide to Swedish sociologist Gunnar Myrdahl, then working on a cultural survey of Black life in America. The result was the classic two-volume study, "An American Dilemma."

Dr. Bunche recalled many harrowing experiences connected with this project:

"In 1939 I took Myrdal on a field trip down South. In many places, especially smaller towns with populations like 10,000, we were ordered out of town by the sheriff, even though we explained we were just there to ask people questions. When we did have access to people, we found that they were afraid to talk, especially the preachers, who told us that the banks held mortgages on the churches and would foreclose on them if they cooperated with us. Even professionals shied away.

"We had to work surreptitiously and under the constant threat of intimidation. Myrdal, a Scandinavian, was chosen for this work because his country had no record of any racial problem but this was meaningless when he himself was almost lynched in a small town outside of Montgomery."

Many years later, although his health had begun to fail, Dr. Bunche returned to Alabama in 1965 to participate in the historic march from Selma to Montgomery, led by Dr. Martin Luther King.

U.N. PIONEER

During World War II, Dr. Bunche held top government positions as an analyst in African and Far Eastern affairs and in 1944 joined the State Department, where he held executive positions in international affairs.

In this period, he helped to draw up the territories and trusteeships sections of the United Nations charter.

In 1946 he joined the United Nations as director of the Trustee ships Division.

ALMOST KILLED

Dr. Bunche assumed international prominence in 1948 when he was appointed chief assistant to Count Folke Bernadotte, the U.N. mediator in the Palestine crisis. When Count Bernadotte was assassinated in 1948, Dr. Bunche was faced with the formidable challenge of continuing U.N. ceasefire negotiations with the two disputing nations, Egypt and Israel.

Dr. Bunche told how he had narrowly escaped the fate of Bernadotte:

"Since I and my staff were still working feverishly to complete his report to the Secretary-General, after an all night session, we were still working at 6 a.m. Count Bernadotte came in and said goodbye as he left for the airport. The arrangement was that I was to have been in Jerusalem at 3 p.m. Had I been there, I would have been in the mediator's car at the time of the assassination."

Against the backdrop of this dramatic chain of events, Dr. Bunche began working with the thorny issues which had to be settled in the Palestine dispute -- the final definition of the boundaries which were to separate Jewish and Arab territory, the future status of Jerusalem and the disposition of 500,000 Arab regugees and the complicated details of a final ceasefire order.

After 42 days of intensive negotiations, Dr. Bunche reported to the U.N. Security Council on January 7, 1949, with the famed "Four Armistice Agreements," providing for a ceasefire and for a workable peace settlement. These agreements are regarded as the basis for the relative quiet which prevailed between Arabs and Israelis until the recent hostilities between the two groups.

HERO'S WELCOME

World recognition of Dr. Bunche's feat was instantaneous. He returned to a hero's welcome in New York City, complete with a ticker-tape parade up Broadway. He was similarly honored in Los Angeles.

In 1950, Dr. Bunche received the Nobel Peace Prize, which he regarded as the "greatest formal tribute" ever paid him, although later he said:

"Smaller things impress me more. "In terms of warmth, I have an even higher regard for the tribute given me in Kenya than for the Nobel Prize. Then there was one surprise luncheon given for me out at UCLA that I remember. It was attended by most of the basketball players who were on the team with me from 1923 to 1927. Some of these fellows traveled such a great distance to get there...."

OTHER CRISES

In 1955, Dr. Bunche was promoted to his current post and started work on a number of special assignments. In 1956, after the Suez Canal crisis, he put together and directed the United Nations Emergency Force for the Middle East. He performed U.M. missions in the Congo, Yemen, Kashmir and Cyprus.

He was instrumental in directing the first and second U.N. International Conferences on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy, in drafting the Statute of the International Atomic Energy Agency and in organizing that agency.

OPTIMISTIC

In a letter written to Secretary General U Thant, Dr. Bunche said he had retained his faith in the United Nations "despite recent disillusionments and frustrations, particularly with regard to peacekeeping operations and the calamitous war in Vietnam."

MANY AWARDS

Dr. Bunche has been the recipient of numerous awards, including the One World Award, the Spingarn Medal of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Four Freedoms Award and the Presidential Freedom Medal.

He has served on the executive council of the American Political Science Association, the William Allen White Commission, the New York City Board of Higher Education, the Board of Overseers of Harvard, the Board of Trustees of Oberlin College and the Board of Trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Married to the former Ruth Harris of Alabama, Dr. Bunche is the father of two daughters and a son.

People the world over can consider Dr. Bunche one of the giants of the human race, a man who has greatly influenced the course of world events.

UCLA Team Working On Car Exhaust

A 20-month research project on catalytic afterburners has been started at UCLA to help meet the strict 1975 anti-pollution standards for automobiles.

The 10-man UCLA faculty-student team will concentrate on the design, construction and testing of a two-stage catalytic afterburner which can combine low cost and effectiveness without raising fuel consumption.

California's State Air Resources Board is supporting the study through a grant to the University of California's Project Clean Air.

The federal auto exhaust standards for 1975-76 call for reductions in all pollutants, including carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, and nitric oxides. The toughest part of the job will be to reduce the nitric oxides to required levels without cutting too deeply into driving economy, according to Prof. Ken Nobe of the School of Engineering and Applied Science, who heads the project.

In the first and most difficult stage of Nobe's planned process, the catalytic control device will reduce nitric oxides. Carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and hydrogen would be oxidized in the second stage.

The catalyst must be active, cheap and last at least 50,000 miles, says Dr. Nobe. Platinum for instance, is both an effective and durable catalyst, but quite expensive. Nobe's group will experiment with catalysts based on copper, chromium, nickel and cobalt.

'Friends Of FBI' Solicit Funds To Improve Image

The Friends of the FBI--an organization formed to respond to criticism of the Federal Bureau of Investigation--reports an "excellent response" to the several hundred thousand requests it has sent out for tax-deductible contributions.

The group's spokesman--Lee Edwards, a public relations man -- said in Washington, D.C. that the response had been so good he hoped to announce next month the start of a project to counteract a proposed study of the FBI by the Woodrow Wilson School of Princeton University and the Committee for Public Justice headed by Roger Wilkins, a former assistant Attorney General.

The group's letter to potential contributors was signed by actor Efrem Zimbalist, Jr., who portrays an FBI agent in the television series, "The F.B.I."

Zimbalist subjecte to the degradation of an attack by self-serving politicians, their supporting media and certain radical elements that ultimately seek the destruction of all law and order in the United States...

"We, the Friends of the FBI," he went on, "are determined to counter the campaign against the FBI and Mr. Hoover, which threatens to undermine the whole structure of law and order in the United States."

The letter asks recipients -- who Edwards said were culled from various "Middle America" lists -- to sign a "declaration of support for the agency and Mr. Hoover" and to contribute money "to produce a truly objective and scholarly study" and to "carry through an effective educational campaign."

The letter reminded recipients that gifts to the nonprofit organization would be tax-deductible.

Zimbalist claimed the sponsorship of the Princeton study "suggests the bias that could prevail and foreshadows the distorted, damaging 'findings' that would result."

Three Blacks Compete

A tough battle between Black politicians looms ahead in Houston where they will vie next year for election to a newly created Congressional seat.

State Assemblyman Curtis Graves and activist Booker T. Booner have announced they would seek election to Texas' 18th Congressional District.

State Senator Barbara Jordon, a member of the Texas Redistricting Committee that created the predominantly Black district in Houston, will announce her candidacy within the next few weeks.

The new district includes a poor section of Houston with a population of about 462,000. At least 55 percent of the district is Black, 15 percent Mexican-American and about 30 percent white.

The battle will probably be decided in the Democratic primary next May. The winner of that primary will face a Republican opponent in November, 1972, but the district is expected to support the Democratic winner of the primary.

MISS JORDAN

Miss Jordan, who was born in Houston in 1936, was a magna cum laude graduate of Texas Southern University and received a law degree from Boston University in 1959. She was elected to the Texas Senate in 1966 from a district that had a slight majority of white voters. She was re-elected to a four-year term in 1968.

Miss Jordan has been appointed permanent secretary to the 1970 State Democratic Convention and is a member of the executive committee of the National Democratic Policy Council and the board of directors of the National Urban League.

Miss Jordan said she will run on her record in next spring's primary. "I can get things done," she said. "I've pushed a good deal of important legislation through the State Senate."

Expecting the support of the Texas Democratic Party, Miss Jordan estimated that the primary campaign will cost from $50,000 to $100,000.

GRAVES

Graves, who expects to spend a minum of $65,000, said that he was "free of the Democratic party structure."

He brought a challenge delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968. The delegates were not seated, although Graves was accepted as a regular delegate.

"This will be one of the most important political, races in the country," Graves said of the coming primary. "The first Black congressman in this century from Texas, from the old Confederate South.

Recommends Versatility

Johnny Brown, of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" considers himself an atypical stage father.

his daughter Sharon, 9, is following in the family tradition of show business but Brown believes in letting her set her own pace.

"Because I am in this business and have been for quite some time, I have a greater insight into what it means to have a talented child than does the average non-show business parent," says Brown.

"Once an ambitious parent discovers his child has talent, the tendency is to push the child. Push him to develop this talent and then push him to get the right breaks, to get recognized. This can be okay, if not used to the extreme as I have seen happen in several instances.

"With Sharon we have tried to let her advance at her own pace. We did not purposely lead her into this business. She is in it because she wants to be. And since she is, we have stressed only one thing and that's the advantage to being a versatile performer."

On this point Brown thinks of himself as a "complete performer"--singer, dancer, actor as well as comedian. He's willing to try any phase of the entertainment business once and this is the advice he is passing on to his daughter.

Thus far Brown's advice to his daughter seems to be paying off. Sharon recently completed a dramatic stint with a New York-based day-TV serial and prior to that she did commercials. A couple of months ago she appeared with her father on "The Tonight Show" during which she displayed her singing ability.

"At the rate this kid is going, in a couple of years she'll be able to support me and then what will I do for an encore?" says a proud Johnny Brown.

BOATING DEATHS

More than 1,300 people in the United States lost lives as the result if boating accidents last year.
